

Democratic Vice Chairman Appointed

MRS. HOWARD S. Eckert was named vice chairman of the Monroe County Democratic Committee last night.

The announcement was made as a surprise move by county chairman Jacob Altemose. Altemose announced Mrs. Eckert's appointment at a meeting of the Democratic Women's Club in Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Eckert's name had been recommended by the advisory committee to the chairman, Altemose said. She is the wife of the late Howard Eckert, a long-time school board member in East Stroudsburg, who died two years ago.

After her husband's death Mrs. Eckert served out his term as secretary of the borough school board. She has been active in Democratic party affairs for many years.

Following announcement of the appointment by Altemose, the Democratic club went on record as unanimously endorsing Mrs. Eckert for the job and approving the chairman's action.

Mrs. Eckert spoke briefly, expressing thanks to the chairman, his committee and the members of the club. She lives at 109 S. Green St., East Stroudsburg.

Other news of the club meeting will be printed in tomorrow's edition of The Daily Record.

Leader Fills Cabinet Post

HARRISBURG, Jan. 12 (AP)—Gov.-elect George M. Leader tonight selected Joseph Kennedy of Wilkes-Barre to be his Secretary of Mines in the incoming Democratic state administration.

Kennedy is executive assistant to Thomas Kennedy, international vice president of the United Mine Workers. He will succeed W. J. Clements in the $15,000-a-year cabinet post.

The secretary-designate was recommended for the job this week by Thomas Kennedy and seven UMW district presidents.

The two Kennedys are not related. Joseph Kennedy has served in his present post for seven years. He has held many local union offices during the last 25 years and is personally acquainted with many Pennsylvania mine operators.

Leader said Kennedy's knowledge of the technical points of the mining industry "is so comprehensive and well developed by practical experience that he fits the job like a glove."

A native of Larksville in the hard coal region, Kennedy is 51. He first went to work in the mines in 1916. In 1929 he became associated with District 1 of the UMW as secretary to John Boylan, president.

In Oct. 1945, Kennedy was named secretary to Thomas Kennedy, then international secretary-treasurer of the UMW. He held that post until becoming executive assistant. Kennedy is a graduate of the University of Scranton.

Vestrymen Elected By Grace Church

THE ANNUAL congregational meeting of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, was held this week in the parish house chapel with a good attendance.

Five vestrymen were elected to serve three-year terms. Those elected were: Hanford L. Cleveland, trustee; William P. Miller, Fred Lipe Sr., Gerald A. Snyder, deacons; and Mrs. Alphonse Meyers, deaconess. Those whose terms expired were: Henry J. Peters, William Lee Sr., and Miss Ellen Hoffman.

The newly elected councilmen will be officially installed as vestry members during the 11 a.m. service next Sunday by Rev. William F. Wunder, pastor.

Reports were given by all auxiliaries of the parish and mimeographed reports of the congregation and Church School finances for 1954 were distributed to each member present. Substantial gains in all phases of congregational life were noted.

Total income of the parish for 1954 not including auxiliary finances exceeded $22,000. Fire Report Shows Receipt Of 32 Calls MARSHALLS CREEK Fire Company answered 32 calls during 1954, according to Chief Ralph Miller's annual report.

The report, delivered last night before the full fire company meeting in the fire hall, also said properties valued at $54,800 (including contents) were involved in the alarms.

Company firemen held damages to only $18,675 ($12,175 on buildings and $6,500 for contents) for a saving of $36,125, the report went on.

Miller's report listed these fires reported during the year: Dwelling fires, five; grass fires, 11; woods fires, five; car fires, three; dump re, one; and garage fires, two.

The company also received two calls on which no "run" was made. The persons who turned in the alarms called back within a few minutes to tell firemen the blaze had been put out and their services were not needed.

One search party was organized by firemen during the year, Miller reported. The party was intended to look for a lost boy. The boy came back home before the search had begun, however.

The average number of firemen answering calls was 18 during the year, the chief said. As of Jan. 1, 1955, the Marshalls Creek company has answered 200 calls since its organization.

The company is now nine and one-half years old. It marks its tenth anniversary in June of this year, according to Charles Degan, corresponding secretary of the organization.

In selecting the 54-year-old Charlesworth, the governor-elect acted on the recommendation of the Pennsylvania Economy League, a non-profit research organization, in its plan for reorganization of the governor's office.

Charlesworth is a native of Gratztown, Westmoreland County.

86-Year-Old Man Charged With Assault

THE COUNTY jail is a busy place these days. Its total rose to 17 inmates yesterday with the arrival of two East Stroudsburg men, according to deputy sheriff Henry McCool.

Raphael Zoppy, 86, of 296 N. Courtland St., and William VanWhy, 53, now of 476 N. Courtland St., are the latest additions. McCool said VanWhy had been lodged at the local jail for various charges in the past.

Zoppy was jailed on the charge of felonious assault with a loaded rifle. His wife made the accusation of assault due to an incident in the Zoppy home last Nov. 17.

He will be given a hearing at the office of Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser within the next two days.

VanWhy was being held for one day. He pleaded guilty to obtaining money fraudulently from the Department of Public Assistance in a hearing held Tuesday by Bonser.

VanWhy admitted he accepted some $55.65 of fraudulent sums. He must pay that amount to the state along with a $5 fine and costs.

Search For Escaped Killer Extended To Two-State Area

ORANGE, Tex., Jan. 12 (AP)—Lawmen fanned out today in a hunt for escaped killer Julius Bohannon, who murdered two Oklahoma lawmen and a prison guard during a spree of violence in the 30's.

The search in southeast Texas and southwest Louisiana began after a man said he'd been kidnapped by two armed men, one of whom he identified as Bohannon. Police think the other might be the fugitive's son.

Bohannon, 49, fled the Oklahoma State Penitentiary Saturday night—the third escape for the leader of a bloody break in 1936. A trusty, Bohannon slipped off from the prison movie where he was the projectionist.

Police here quoted an Oklahoma pickup order as listing him as "dangerous" and saying Bohannon had boasted he would not be taken alive.

An abandoned, burned car was found today 10 miles north of here. It belonged to Burnice Roberts, 42, a Negro of Baytown, Tex.

Roberts told police at nearby Beaumont two men kidnapped him at Baytown Monday morning, robbed him of $90 and a pocket watch and forced him into his car trunk. Roberts said the pair, armed with pistols, drove around in East Texas, visiting several taverns. He said both fell asleep near Silsbee Monday night.

Roberts said he then escaped from the car and hitchhiked from Silsbee to Beaumont.

Roberts identified one of the pair from a photograph as Julius Bohannon. His description of the other, Beaumont police said, fitted Billy Bohannon, about 20, son of the escaped convict.

Roberts said the older man called the youth "Billy Don."

Tracy Dunn, printer for the Orange Leader, found the car. He said it apparently had been there several hours, since the fire had burned out and the vehicle apparently had been stripped. It wasn't known who burned and stripped it, or why.

Texas and Louisiana State Police and Orange county sheriff's officers began combing the area.

The car was about 15 miles west of the Louisiana border. Police said the pair may have been trying to make it across the state line. Police said the younger Bohannon worked for an oil well cementing firm at Harvey, La., near New Orleans.

Bohannon drew one life term and another of 99 years for killing two southern Oklahoma peace officers in 1935. He got another life term for murdering a guard during the 1936 break. He was caught two months later.

He walked away again in 1947, only to be recaptured in Alabama.

Fund Set Up For Training Of Ministers

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—John D. Rockefeller Jr. has set aside a 20-million-dollar fund to "strengthen and develop Protestant theological education in the United States."

The gift probably is the largest single grant ever made for purposes of religious training.

Rockefeller turned the huge amount, in securities, over to a philanthropic agency to administer.

Specific purposes for which the money will go was not indicated, but it presumably would be used in strengthening and expanding the programs of the nation's theological schools.

Rockefeller about a year ago made a million-dollar donation to Harvard University for its divinity school.

This week's announcement said the securities, with a 20-million-dollar market value, were turned over to the Sealantic Fund, a philanthropic agency set up by Rockefeller in 1938.

In making the previous gift to the Harvard Divinity School, Rockefeller wrote to the university's then newly elected president, Dr. Nathan M. Pusey:

"Your profound belief in the underlying importance of the spiritual life promises to have far-reaching influence on education in this country."

Rockefeller said he was making the Harvard gift because, "I so fully agree with you" in that belief.

Get New Industry

Gov.-elect George M. Leader has designated John P. Robin, executive director of the Pittsburgh Urban Redevelopment Authority as his State Secretary of Commerce with a specific assignment to try to attract new business to Pennsylvania and create conditions to keep industries in the state.

The problems which Mr. Leader will face in the next four years are huge and complex. Not the least of them is what to do about the scary problems of mass unemployment in a number of communities, especially those hit by the slump in coal mines.

Pennsylvania needs new industries to replace those which—like some of the mines—are passing out of the economic picture. We've got to bring jobs to the people who need them, if we are to avoid the distress of permanent unemployment for thousands who are willing to work.

This community could stand a substantial increase in stable industry to fill the gap which was occupied by the soft goods industries—a gap which has widened increasingly over the past 25 years.

Mr. Leader promised to do that during his campaign for the governorship, and success in that endeavor will help him with some of the other problems he faces—such as getting enough tax revenue to finance state services.

The State Department of Commerce, as it has been operated in recent years, came close to being an unnecessary expense for the state government. Only certain areas of the department—the Travel and Recreation Bureau headed by J. Herbert Walker —produced consistently sound results for the state.

The Chesterman Commission on State Government was quick to spot the softness of the department and went so far as to recommend it be abolished for economy reasons. The committee members observed that private industry did a better job of interesting new industry, at no expense to the state.

Despite this dim view of past accomplishments the department was in agreement with Mr. Leader that this is no time to cast it aside. If the department can accomplish anything in the way of preventing formation of ghost towns, this is the time to try it out.

In Mr. Robin rests the grave responsibility of proper leadership. Properly led and properly staffed, this department should be able to do some investigating and planning, and help new industries get located in places where they can produce at an economic advantage.

Such leadership in the Department of Commerce can cooperate with the railroads and public utilities who are now doing a splendid job in searching out new industries and could help coordinate these activities—just as Herb Walker, with limited funds, got the most out of the travel and vacation industry for Pennsylvania.

We hope Mr. Robin achieves this specific goal of Mr. Leader's campaign pledge, and that each community recognizes its responsibility to give absolute cooperation to the Department of Commerce Secretary's major goal.

Have Another Egg

Pleas to eat more of such-and-such foods, because there's an over-supply, ordinarily leave us as cold as the storage some of them are in.

However, the current eat-more-eggs campaign of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has an appealing ring.

Egg producers, swamped by willing hens, have seen their prices go down and still farther down. But, according to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson, the egg men haven't even asked the Government to buy eggs to keep the prices up.

Such an attitude should be rewarded. In this case, apparently, we don't have to pay more taxes so that we can pay higher prices.

So, let's do eat more eggs. They're good, and good for us, and we can feel that we're saving on both prices and taxes.

George Sokolsky Says...

How Spies, Perverts, Subversives Got In Government Needs Exposure

It is perhaps a sound adage to "let sleeping dogs lie." The Peress case is one which does not seriously involve the now celebrated dentist, but it has affected the careers of many others, and has since last March stirred the country by the quarrel between the Army and Senator McCarthy. It has split the Republican Party right down the middle, and has been an embarrassment to everybody who came close to it.

The case of Peress himself is hardly important. There must be many instances in the Army, which processes millions of young men and women, as the phrase goes, in which papers are inadequately or improperly made out and are negligently handled. It was therefore surprising to those who were close to the case that the Army should have made such a fuss over it. The answer to all of Senator McCarthy's questions could have been: "Sorry! Here is another paper snafu. In the handling of millions of papers, there will be a snafu here and there. We shall make whatever corrections are needed and we shall explore our methods to insure that there are fewer errors."

But no such answer was given. As I have mentioned, too often, in the original Stevens-McCarthy testimony, and as I was present during a conference between them, and had some telephone calls, by his initiation, with John Adams, the Army report issued last Friday comes as no surprise to me. I knew that John Adams had pushed the "Honorable Discharge" of Major Peress as a solution of the problem. He thought that if Peress was got out of the Army, McCarthy ought to be satisfied.

Unfortunately, the issue was never Peress, just as in the Fuchs-Rosenberg Cases, the issue should never have been Dr. Klaus Fuchs or Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. The issue was, with regard to Peress and should have been in the Fuchs-Rosenberg Cases—who makes it easy for spies, subversives and such to infiltrate the agencies of government?

This is very unpleasant business and everyone who engages in it burns his fingers. If not more than that. Definitely it looks like persecutors. Nobody has yet found a method of unearthing spies and subversives pleasantly. The Subcommittee on Rules of the Senate, headed by Senator William Jenner, has held long hearings on the subject of such investigations and has come up with a report on procedural rules which look very good in the report and ought to be adopted, if for no other reason than experimentally to see whether they will achieve the end desired, which is the accumulation of information.

As long as Executive Departments can withhold valuable and valid information from Congressional committees, no rules

Hall Tournament. However we would like to take this opportunity to clear up a few misunderstandings.

First, it has not been the custom in other years for Stroudsburg cheerleaders to attend the tournament. Also, it has been a standing rule of the school that the cheerleaders are not permitted to lead cheers unless the transportation has been provided by the school. This is to eliminate unsupervised transportation while representing the school. We also try to do our best for our team and we really have their interests at heart.

If there are any other misunderstandings we would be only too glad to clear them up for Mr. Riley.

Sincerely
The Stroudsburg Cheerleaders.

All letters to the Editor must be signed with a bona fide address given. Such signatures and addresses will be withheld if the writer desires.

Dear Sir:

Late last week on the Dorsey Brothers show that acrobatic exponent of rhythmic jazz, Johnny Ray, capped the climax on scariage when he, with the assistance of Dorsey's band put the finishing jazz touches on that great religious spiritual "He's the Lily of the Valley and the Bright and Morning Star."

Within the same week the writer of this letter saw the same "Johnny" in the role of a dutiful son of an indulgent family in the part and robes of a Catholic priest.

This writer believes that nothing was gained by Ray's version of this famous spiritual but complete disrespect for his maker. Sure, he made a great hit with his studio audience, made up largely of kids who booed, screamed and howled until bedlam broke loose. But it's an even bet that these same kids never heard the spiritual song or played in its virgin form, so, in all probability they cannot be blamed for not recognizing it as anything but another of Ray's songs in which his facial contortions and "body english" play so prominent a part.

To my mind it even exceeded the terrible radio-spoken words and version of a biblical passage some years ago when Mae West, almost overnight, lost prestige with her vast audience because of a sacrilegious performance.

Johnny Ray or any other performer on radio, TV, or screen, would do well to confine a jazz performance to the type of lyric which is designed for it. Spirituals are written to be sung or played in the reverent manner expected from them to bring out their genuineness and meaning.

Machine Needed To Make Up Facts For Thinking

A while back some of the print-shop wags were plastering all the strategically located wall space with a motto card which I thought showed a singularly keen and sympathetic insight into human frailty.

It said: THINK! (sic)
What made me think of this just now was a little piece I clipped out about Thomas J. Watson, who got into the news again the other day with some remarks he made in an address to students of the Baruch school of business at City College in New York. Mr. Watson, who is chairman of the board of International Business Machines Corporation, was the originator of the "THINK!" sign that long has stared in frustration from the walls of so many business offices.

A man of highly resilient spirit, he still firmly believes that "all the problems of the world could be settled easily if men were only willing to think." And on that point there will be a few to argue with him.

The only trouble, as Mr. Watson pointed out, is that "thinking is such hard work." But Mr. Watson has been trying to do something about that. His company is leader in the development of intricate and ingenious machines to reduce the amount of thinking that has to be done by hand, so to speak.

But now the very success of his and other efforts in that line worries him. So he was urging the City College students not to stop thinking just because modern technology has developed marvelous mechanical brains. These machines, he emphasized, are "simply tools which man has devised to relieve him of tedious, repetitious drudgery and free his mind for creative work."

I have an idea that maybe Mr. Watson has never fully realized just how free man's mind was for creative work—or anything else that might turn up—even before the thinking machines were invented. This may have given him a slightly distorted impression of the function the machines can perform, and an unwarranted fear of the possibility that they may perform the function too well.

You can't relieve man of drudgery that hasn't been burdening him noticeably, any you can't make him stop thinking until after he has started. Chances are that, up to date, the mechanical brains have had little appreciable effect on the volume of human thinking, one way or the other.

There is reason to hope, however, that by removing the forbidding element of "tedious, repetitious drudgery" Mr. Watson's machines may tempt us strongly to begin thinking. We are almost sure to succumb to this temptation if equally ingenious machines can be built to assemble, select and dump into our laps the available facts from which we can fashion thoughts.

Give us those two essential types of machines and Mr. Watson may practically count on us to stand resolutely behind the push-buttons and THINK.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

Houdini, the famous escape artist, made one of his rare miscalculations when he fought his way free of a supposedly fool-proof police straitjacket and heavy handcuffs from the top span of a big bridge in Scotland. The stunt was widely advertised and a traffic-stopping throng was expected. Yet only a corporal's guard turned up.

"Don't they like me here in Scotland?" the disappointed Houdini asked a city official. "They're crazy about you," was the reassuring reply, "but man, you performed on the wrong bridge. That's a toll bridge!"

The old Shakespearean actor cupped a hand over his ear, and apologized. "You'll have to speak a bit louder, my good man. I've become a wee bit deafened. All that applause, you know..."

A broker arrived at the Exchange one morning with a mourning band around his left leg. "Who died?" asked his partner. "Don't you see?" said the mourner. "It was my step-mother."

Robert S. Allen Reports

Dulles Proposes SEATO Draw Aggression Lines

Washington, January 13: — Secretary of State Dulles has made a fateful proposal to the Southeast Asia Defense Alliance.

He wants the SEATO powers to promulgate a specific anti-aggression line, whose violation anywhere would automatically result in united military retaliation against the Red perpetrators.

Dulles' momentous plan will be the chief subject of the SEATO conference in Bangkok next month.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee members have been informed that President Eisenhower deems the proposal as vitally essential to put "teeth" in the SEATO pact. Dulles has also told these senators he is discussing the matter with the SEATO governments in preparation for the Bangkok meeting.

These private negotiations already have drawn sharp opposition.

Britain is countering with two substitutes: (1) Postpone setting up an anti-aggression line at this time; (2) proposing an alternative and much-watered-down line.

New Zealand is supporting Foreign Minister Eden on both matters. France is going along with him part way, on delaying doing anything for the present.

Against this line-up, the U. S. has the backing of Australia, Pakistan, the Philippines and Thailand. South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos also are strongly favorable, but are not SEATO members, although they are guaranteed protection under the pact. The three Indo-China States and Thailand are in dire Communist peril, and extremely anxious that forceful measures be taken at the forthcoming SEATO conference.

Note: U. S. preference to head the SEATO council is Thailand Prince Wan Bongsprabandh. Able and popular, he would offset Pridi Phanomyong, one-time Premier, who defected to the Reds and is leading their so-called "Free Thai" movement from across the Chinese border. Pridi likes to compare himself to Ho Chi Minh, ruler of the Communist Vietnam.

Backstage Argument — The diluted line favored by Britain is the 2800-mile Mekong River, which rises in Tibet and flows through Red China's Yunnan Province and the entire length of Indo-China.

This line would exclude South Vietnam and Laos, and mean their abandonment to the Communists.

Secretary Dulles has told Foreign Relations Committee members that Britain contends "only a miracle" can save these two desperately-endangered countries from Red seizure. Foreign Minister Eden is convinced that Communists are virtually certain to win the Vietnam election scheduled for next year under the Geneva truce agreement.

France's position, as explained to the senators, is favorable to the anti-aggression line advocated by the U. S., but opposed to anything being done about this now. Reason is French belief that the most urgent Southeast Asia problem is internal subversion and not external aggression.

The French argue that SEATO should concentrate on combating subversion and leave outside aggression for future consideration. Secretary Dulles vigorously disagrees with both the British and French. He insists that a forthright anti-aggression line is crucial, and must be proclaimed at once to strengthen the forces against subversion.

"Our position in this strategic area," he told the Foreign Relations Committee members, "is to build up strong mobile forces, which can strike quickly and effectively at any aggression that may arise, whether internal or external. That is why we consider it essential to have a clear-cut and inclusive anti-aggression line."

"We must not yield one inch on that. At the same time, it is not our intention to duplicate the pattern of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization with its large standing military forces. We don't think that is either practical or desirable in Southeast Asia."

Dulles also asserted that Admiral Radford, Joint Chiefs chairman who has just completed a first-hand survey of this region, is convinced that South Vietnam and Laos can be kept out of Communist hands if prompt and vigorous action is taken.

Note: Britain is now selling more goods to Finland than Russia. According to a Finnish government report, in 1954 British imports totaled 20.7 per cent against 19.9 per cent from Russia, 7 per cent from West Germany, and 5.5 per cent from the U. S.

Help Wanted — West Point, Annapolis and the new Air Force Academy will soon be in the market for big-name football coaches—if they can put that over.

Defense Secretary Wilson has authorized the three services to seek congressional permission to set up professorships in physical education at their academies. This would enable the employment of civilians as football coaches. Also, if an officer gets the job he would not have to be concerned about keeping up with military developments to get promoted.

The unannounced plan is being spearheaded by Army Secretary Robert Stevens. In a personal letter to congressional leaders he states the proposed professorships in physical education "will contribute toward the attainment of higher standards in this department of instruction at the academies."

State Police Win Praise Of Violators

—by H. G. Heller

What do you think YOUR reaction would be if you were caught in a Motor Vehicle Code violation and then came that summons with only one alternative—pay your $10 or $15 costs?

Justice of the Peace John R. Lesoine has a score or more of letters which violators attached to their settlements for one violation or another.

Some are bitter, some are filled with alibis but most of them are in high praise of the arresting officers—usually a member of the Pennsylvania State Police stationed in this region.

One of the bitter type:

"To Whom It May Concern: I am sending you a money order for my husband's arrest, but I hope you need the money more than we do, for you are depriving my children of a good Christmas."

Another violator, enclosing a check to cover costs and fine, wrote:

"It is only human to pay such a fine reluctantly, particularly in view of the fact that it spoils an otherwise perfect seven-year driving record. My unfamiliarity with the terrain, approaching darkness and anxiety to get to the Convention with someone who knew the way clouded my better judgement and I realize now that I rashly placed not only my own life in jeopardy but also that of other innocent people."

"The consideration, courtesy and efficiency of the arresting officer reflects the highest credit and praise to our Pennsylvania State Police Force. All too frequently we fail to realize their responsibility as 'guardians of our safety' and our own flagrant disregard and lack of cooperation is being thus protected."

Here's another in the same vein:

"Enclosed please find check for $15 to cover fine and costs imposed on me in your township..."

"As an added note I would like to compliment the conduct of the arresting officer in this matter, who presented himself as a real gentleman."

Still another, after remitting a fine and costs:

"Pennsylvania State Police are reputed to be very capable and well aware of common politeness, and the officer confirmed this. Not only did he permit me to continue on my trip, but was very careful to remind me of my constitutional rights concerning the situation."

There are many others, saying the same things in different words. There could be no finer testimonial to the State Police here than the compliments of a violator who has to pay.

Record Crowd Jams Farm Show Building At Midway Point

185,000 Tour Exhibition On Third Day

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

HARRISBURG, Jan. 12 (P) — Teeming crowds and the lowing of the nation's finest cattle today ushered in the mid-way point of the 1955 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Despite threatening skies and near freezing temperatures, an estimated 185,000 people came to the 13-acre brick building on the north-eastern edge of Harrisburg to view competition and livestock auctions in 25 show departments.

The estimated attendance tied an all-time one-day mark set in 1952.

At livestock judging prime brown Swiss and Jersey dairy cattle vied for honors along with sleek, fat Hereford and Aberdeen-Angus beef cattle.

"This is by far the most outstanding farm show I have ever taken part in," declared John W. G. Altland, show director. Altland told a newsmen he has been director of 12 shows at the Farm Show Building.

Altland and some 50 other business and professional leaders from across the commonwealth to receive honors from the Future Farmers of America at the youth's annual convention held in conjunction with the show.

At the mid-way mark the youngsters held the spotlight in activities. More than 1,000 of the boys, all clad in sapphire blue jackets with gold trim, joined girls of the Future Homemakers of America in conferring the honorary "Keystone Farmer" degrees on the state leaders.

At the same time they honored 217 of their own members for outstanding achievement in vocational agriculture. 40 girls also received special awards for their work in homemaking.

Two youths were designated by the FFA for extra honors. They were Victor Cappucci, 19, of Mehoopany, Wyoming County, who was named State Star Farmer, and Eldred Hitchcock, 17, of Montrose, who was elected State Star Dairy Farmer.

The honors were conferred at impressive ceremonies in the forum of the state education building.

Harrisburg city and state police had their hands full directing lines of automobiles in and out of the 30-acre parking lot surrounding the Farm Show Building.

At noon traffic lines on the main highway arteries feeding into the capital city were clogged as far as two miles outside Harrisburg on Route 22, while in the city police routed steady streams of vehicles through every possible by-pass toward the show.

And along with jumps in attendance figures came increases in the quantities of food served to hungry visitors. The traditional baked potato—long a farm show food favorite—was bought by more than 15,000 people, boosting three day sales to some 40,000 tubers and butter.

In other action at the show, the commonwealth's vegetable growers called for a more liberal approach to social security regulations affecting migrant and transient farm laborers.

The action was taken in a resolution passed at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania vegetable growers held at the farm show.

New provisions of the U. S. social security law require all farm workers earning $100 or more in a year to file returns. The vegetable growers said this entails an "impossible job of record keeping."

Small Urges Liberal Gifts To Polio Drive

JOSEPH H. SMALL, Monroe County chairman of the National Foundation for polio, addressed the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club on the March of Dimes campaign yesterday afternoon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Small spoke of the thorough examination and treatment provided for victims of the disease by the county organization and noted the great expense involved. Seven polio cases were cared for by the Monroe County Chapter last year and nine in 1953.

The county chapter has exhausted its funds, Small said, and the national foundation has contributed to the care of county patients.

With this in mind, Small said, he is asking all county residents to give liberally to the March of Dimes drive. Richard R. Fredenberg is the county chairman.

William P. Wells, first vice president, furnished the program yesterday, a film, "The March of Time" based on industry in New Orleans, which is termed "Gateway of the World." The tremendous growth and expansion in the past 13 years were pictured. Henry Kresge operated the projector.

Announcement was made that John J. Cowley is a patient at the Monroe County General Hospital and Dr. Claus G. Jordan is ill at his home.

President Detlef A. Hansen reported on the inaugural ceremony of J. D. Ceader as lieutenant governor, 17th division, at the Riegelsville club Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hintze and Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Dupee represented the Stroudsburg club, making it an inter-club meeting.

President Hansen also told of the orientation meeting of officers and committee chairmen last Wednesday. He also welcomed Raymond Price Sr., of Barrett, as a guest.

The 40th anniversary of Kiwanis International will be observed at next week's meeting when Arlington W. Williams will be in charge and give the address.

The music period was in charge of Dr. Earl Willhoite and Numa J. Snyder.

Trucking Terminal Proposal Projected By Osborn At Meeting Of Manufacturers

A TRUCKING TERMINAL in the Stroudsburgs was proposed to the Monroe County Manufacturers Association this week.

The idea received its first public unveiling by William Osborn of 1528 Spruce St., Stroudsburg, who has operated here as an independent trucker since his discharge from the Army in 1946.

Osborn has been working on the proposition ever since he heard the Manufacturers Association members complain about their motor carrier service a year ago. Basically Osborn proposes to:

One—Build a huge central terminal, probably in the area of First St., Stroudsburg, already an industrial section.

Two—Operate a fleet of small trucks to move shipments from the terminal to points throughout the Poconos.

Three—Make pick-ups throughout the area on a 24-hour-a-day basis and move the goods to the terminal, there to be loaded aboard regular commercial carriers for shipment.

Osborn cited advantages to this set-up. The big tractor-trailer and large-size trucks would be kept off congested thorough streets where they now stop to make deliveries. Duplicate trucking services would be eliminated. Costly waiting time would be avoided. Cost would be eliminated of having a large truck make a small delivery to outlying areas. More frequent pick-ups would mean less shipping space needed by industries. More local labor would be employed by the terminal.

Regular carriers would pay a local terminal and distribution charge which would enable the terminal to operate, and would at the same time save the carriers money over their present distribution system, Osborn said.

Pick-ups and deliveries would be made to points within a 40-mile radius of Stroudsburg on the Pennsylvania side of the river, and within a 25-mile radius on the New Jersey side.

Osborn said the proposal had the blessings of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which helped work out many details of the plan, and also has received approval of a number of local manufacturers and motor carriers.

Cost of the terminal was not gone into, but it would be a big enough building to load or unload 16 tractor-trailers simultaneously. The structure would be of the island type, with a loading island down the center as high as the tailgate of the trailer, and eight doors on each side of the terminal.

Mrs. Rinker Wins First Prize At Show

A STROUDSBURG RD 1 woman raised the finest English walnuts in Pennsylvania this year.

Judging at the State Farm Show yesterday gave Mrs. Verna Rinker first prize for her entry of "Nuts, persian, English walnuts."

Mrs. Rinker has competed in various local farm shows and fairs in recent years. Here was the only county entry to win a prize at the show which has not been previously announced in this newspaper.

Several Bangor and Pen Argyl High School and 4-H girls were among winners announced yesterday, however. The list included:

Adele Fisher, Bangor RD 2, a first for skirt-making; Martha Duran, Pen Argyl RD 1, first in "sweepstakes" entries for clothing; Madelyn Weidman, Bangor RD 1, first for machine patch, second for machine darn.

June Shaffer, a Lake Ariel resident, won a top prize in the home improvement class for a display of floor rugs.

Thoughtful families select a cemetery plot and a memorial while all are here to participate in the choice.

Reich Socialists Continue Battle Against Treaties

BOSS, Germany, Jan. 12 (AP)—West German Socialists opened a vigorous poster campaign today against the Paris treaties to rearm West Germany.

The Socialists, who have fought German rearmament ever since it was first raised four years ago, plastered 100 West German cities with posters reminding the public of the horrors of war.

The posters, starkly drawn in red and black, showed a one-legged war cripple limping on crutches with bomb-riddled buildings in the background.

"Never again—therefore negotiate," the posters said.

The posters were the first step in a campaign the Socialists intend to wage against the Paris treaties between now and mid-February, when the Bundestag (Lower House) votes finally on ratification.

Naval Official Escapes Injury In Crash Landing

BEEVILLE, Tex., Jan. 12 (AP)—The undersecretary of the Navy and several high Naval officers escaped injury in a crash landing at Chase Field near here today.

The nose wheel of their Navy transport plane collapsed on landing.

Those aboard included Undersecretary Thomas Gates Jr., retired Vice Adm. Calvin Burgin and Rear Adm. C. D. Glover, chief of the Naval Advanced Air Training Command at Corpus Christi.

The plane carried eight persons and a crew of six. The group was on an inspection tour. No one was hurt.

A Navy spokesman said the plane suffered only a "skinned" nose. Cause of the wheel failure was not immediately determined.

WORLD-FAMOUS Dr. Helen Keller inspects a Royal Dutch airlines plane named in her honor at New York's International airport. Dr. Keller, 74, will leave in February on a 40,000-mile survey of the Far East to inspire more education and rehabilitation facilities for the blind.

SUPPOSED to be just an aerial view of a new super Constellation, this photo is a dandy one of Los Angeles.

THIS VISITOR to Guaymas, Sonora, Mexico, is gathering firewood for a beach picnic at the winter resort. She soon will be roasting fresh shrimp over an open fire.

THERE ARE a lot of "John Hancocks" on exterior of the Moulin Rouge in Hollywood. The concrete placards contain signatures of movie stars. This used to be Earl Carroll's theater-restaurant until he died in a plane crash.

WINTER passed this way and left her calling card at the township of Brownsville, Vt., near Connecticut river.

Anna brushes up on new step at meeting of square dance caller group.

Sings square dance tune at hoe-down.

ANNA KOLAR is blind, but don't feel sorry for her. A pretty, 19-year-old from Berwyn, Ill., she goes to Rosary college, where she takes a stiff academic course; she dashes around Chicago alone on streetcars and, for fun and relaxation, she square dances. In fact, she's one of the best square dance callers in the city. Anna began going to hoe-downs four years ago and it wasn't long before she knew all the words. Soon she was invited to do the calling. Then she organized a square dance class for a troop of blind Girl Scouts. In Central City, Colo., where she went for a vacation, she guest-called at a jamboree of 3,000 persons. With the money she earned calling, she bought a Seeing-Eye dog. Anna learns new steps by explanation. She's danced with many men who didn't know she is blind.

CLOUDS OF SMOKE blanket lower Manhattan as a five-alarm fire sweeps through two piers. Firemen are climbing aerial ladder to battle blaze. One fireman was injured.

TAKING advantage of unseasonal weather, Marlene Jedda of Jackson, Mich., tries to get in some wood before the cold weather returns again.

In class, Anna reads notes in Braille while dog snoozes.

Spring Suits Strictly New And Different

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—If you like to look in the latest fashion, this is one spring when last year's suit won't do.

Spring suits of 1955, as previewed this week by New York designers, look strictly new and different. The fitter, curved, short-jacket suits of the last few seasons are replaced by new slim, tubular silhouettes with long jackets, either fitted or boxy, slim skirts, a narrower look through the shoulders and less accentuation of waistline and bustline.

A top example of the new suit lineup is the collection of Anthony Blotta, shown in today's series of press openings. This veteran Italian tailor likes box jacket suits in handsome nubby silks, worn with beautifully detailed overblouses which usually match the jacket lining. The jackets have a narrow, elongated line, hug the slim hips and are straight as a column.

Blotta also shows long fitted suit jackets, and some costumes with full-length coat, skirt and overblouse. For his fitted jackets he likes featherweight navy worsteds, sometimes with satin or velvet binding and handsome tucked chiffon overblouses. Included in the collection are a series of meticulously tailored coat dresses in sheer wools, and a group of costumes consisting of suit jacket over a slim one-piece wool dress.

Ben Reig, also included in today's lineup, stresses black silk dresses of every variety, giving many of them a slim, sleek look and a flattering neckline achieved either through cut or by crisp lingerie touches.

Jo Copeland, the designer credited for inventing the cocktail suit, gives this costume new elegance this season with sumptuous fabrics and new silhouette, elongating and narrowing the line.

Some 150 fashion editors, representing newspapers throughout the United States and various foreign countries, are in New York this week to report on spring styles of the new year.

THREE-YEAR-OLD Frankie Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Davis, is recovering nicely from a second degree burn on his foot. Frankie, with his parents and brothers, was visiting relatives in Philadelphia, after Christmas. To relieve a cold he suffered, a vaporizer was placed by his bed. A sudden movement on his part, upset it and permitted the benzine to penetrate to his foot.

Mrs. Bennett Strait, Mrs. H. W. Brodhead and Mrs. Edythe Glebe were guests at a TV party given at the home of Miss Frances Everett, Stroudsburg, Friday night, in honor of Mrs. Strait.

The dinner served Saturday night in the Presbyterian Sunday School room by the Palmerton Scouts was prepared by Mrs. Henry Kulp, Mrs. Walter Bryfogle and Mrs. Henry Baker. Pies were donated by mothers of scouts and scout cubs. Henry Baker and Walter Bryfogle assisted with the dinner and Henry Kulp donated his services as dishwasher and clean-up man. The waitresses were the Senior Girl Scouts: Annette and Eleanor Kulu, Camille Buzzard, Sandra Carlton, Faith Chamberlain and Susan Heitler.

Rev. Luther Markin is expected home this week from a three-week vacation in New Mexico. During his absence, Rev. John Sinclair, of Stroudsburg, a former missionary, has occupied the pulpit and made many friends in the Presbyterian Church.

Friends in Water Gap have received a Christmas letter from Rev. George Evans, a former Methodist pastor. Mr. Evans, who left the Gap-Portland churches to train in good will work and become superintendent of the Columbus, Ohio, Industries, gives an amusing picture of the task of transferring to a building bought in August when the old buildings were condemned. Three months of campaigning for funds were followed by three months of moving when Mr. Evans "lived with architects, contractors, electricians, painters, salesmen, dirt, dust and bills." The Industries are run to give paying work to handicapped folk; crippled, blind, mentally affected. The workers would go home at night from the old building and start in next morning in the new. Mrs. Evans, all those months, cooked at home and sent to the plants the meals that normally are prepared in the cafeteria. She has also organized a woman's group to meet nights. The Evans have purchased a 1940 school bus and remodeled it into a house car with bunk beds, ice box, cupboards and lights, so that they, with the children, George, David and Patsy, can get in some trips during vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Buzzard had a family dinner party at their home last week, entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Buzzard and daughter, Camille, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buzzard and son, William.

Movie Queens Disagree With Dior's Views That Knees, Elbows Never A Pretty Sight

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 12 (AP)—Betty Grable, owner of a world-famed pair of knees, has kicked back at Christian Dior's knocking of knee exposure with this: "My knees have supported me for a long time. I haven't had any complaints yet from a bank or a fan."

Paris designer Dior came out against knees and elbows this week. He told the American Women's Club of Paris: "The knee is the ugliest spot in a woman's anatomy."

Knees, he said, should stay covered. Elbows shouldn't be emphasized by sleeves ending just above them because: "as a general rule, bones are never a pretty sight."

Hollywood's general reaction was summed up thus by actress Kim Novak:

"I think Dior has fallen flat again."

Other opinions: "Knees and elbows can be ugly when they get shoved into you in a football game, but to the female form they're mighty pretty joints."

Tab Hunter: "If women's knees are ugly, a lot of men have been wasting their time looking at them."

Virginia Mayo: "There are beautiful knees and ugly knees just as there are beautiful faces and homely faces. A blanket indictment of the female knee is ridiculous."

Edith Head, a leading movie stylist: "It all depends on the beauty of the knee and the elbow. If it's a pretty knee or elbow, show it."

Yvonne De Carlo: "I'm ashamed of neither my knees nor elbows and I'll continue to wear clothes as I prefer—not as some man dictates."

Dior's hide-the-knee campaign also fared poorly along New York's windy Broadway.

From a swirl of knocks and boasts this seemed to stand out:

The knee is here to stay. Let's enjoy the best and make the best of the rest.

But Dior has his defenders, too. To Tallulah Bankhead the knee is a "hideous hinge," although she had kinder words for the elbow.

"As an accomplished elbow bender," the actress declared, "I think this joint should be undraped to permit a maximum of dexterity."

Actress Carol Bruce conceded that her taste in clothes runs to extremes—either "very much covered up or extremely decollete."

In either case, she said, her elbows are little noticed. But knees . . . well, the woman sitting cross-legged is not an "entrancing sight," said Miss Bruce and "very few women can pass the knee test, a very acid test."

Model and charm expert John Robert Powers canvassed his models and found not one who thought a woman would expose her knees, as she frequently does when she sits down, if she thought they were not attractive.

"What has become of the long-stemmed American beauty we've always had as a standard of fashion?" Powers asked, and answered himself: "They have carried the new look almost to the cadaverous look."

India Notifies U. S. Airlines To Drop One Flight

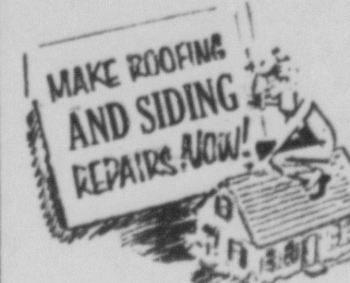

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 12 (AP)—India notified Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines yesterday that each must eliminate one of its three weekly round-trip flights over Indian territory.

The restriction will begin Jan. 14, when the 1946 U. S.—Indian commercial aviation agreement expires. A temporary operation permit will then be in force pending negotiation of a new pact between the two governments.

India served notice a year ago it would terminate the old agreement because it wanted to regulate the frequency of U. S. flights in order to obtain a greater share of traffic for the government-owned Air India international line.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

So far, so good and with luck we ought to make the weekend. It's today that will tell the tale. With two very special events coming up the regular routine is likely to go into a tailspin with us playing crack the whip.

There's a perversion about things that makes them never come out even. You know what I mean: you start with bread and gravy and end up with gravy left over for which you take a slice of bread for which there isn't quite enough gravy—and so on.

There's never enough darning thread on the needle to finish a sock, but thread it again and you've got so much left over that you decide to start another sock, but there's not enough—ad infinitum.

News is the same way. Comes a couple of wide open pages and you start telephoning around for news and then when the system starts working the pages narrow down and you have more news than you can handle.

Worst of all is time. On days when you have time on your hands there's nothing going on and when things are going on like crazy you haven't a minute to enjoy them.

It does make for variety, but just once it would be nice to have everything come out even.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook on the Party Line over WVPO every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10:05 a.m.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

A week or more ago I suddenly decided I'd been lazy long enough... that it was about time the Shopper settled down and shopped, if only by telephone. Accordingly my son was commissioned to visit the Wyckoff stationery department and buy one ribbon for a Royal portable and two packages of typing paper. The two packages of paper didn't mean I intended writing longer columns than usual... it's just that long experience has taught me that making a fresh start after any absence at all is a painful, wasteful experience, with dozens of ideas landing in the wastebasket before one emerges that will "jell." It's like — well, like going off a diving board for the first time... serving your first dinner to company... or making your debut before a mike. The only difference is, the writer has a second and third chance where the high diver might not.

When the ribbon finally arrived I discovered I wasn't ready to write a column at all. Too weak, I told myself. But in my heart I admitted that wasn't the reason at all... I was just incapable of picking up the loose threads where we'd dropped them. I remembered too, how I ALWAYS get wound up in inkly ribbon when there's no really competent girl like Gracie Grace around to help change the goosy black tapes.

As a matter of fact, even this morning there were five very baffling and messy moments in my life as I sat here practically mummified in ribbon... more tied up by far than during the weeks my surgeon was keeping me in stitches. But at last the struggle is over. The ribbon is in place... I've made the plunge... and whether or not my efforts are as good as this very fine equipment from our Wyckoff stationery department, at least I'm BACK. What more could I ask?

The store looks a great deal different today than it did just a month or so ago, when Christmas ornaments were dripping from the lights and climbing the pillars. But in a way it's better—one has a much less obstructed view of all the bargains. There ARE bargains too, believe me. One has only to stand in the appliance department and glance into our shoe store to see that these are red letters being a mark-down on a big assortment of shoes. The same thing is true throughout our store, with every department getting set for inventory which comes up the first week in February. Then too there's the traditional January white sale which brightens many a winter day for the budgeting housewife.

Yes, it's wonderful to be back... it's REALLY coming home when you walk through the front door of our friendly store to be greeted by the dozens of friendly folk who comprise your workaday family. It's grand too to be greeted by the Wyckoff customers who share the same spirit of good will. The sentimental feeling about Wyckoff's is pretty general, judging from my mail... so do keep reading, and I'll keep you posted on facts, fiction, fun and folks... okay?

Britain Gets No Letup From Severe Winter

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Heavy snow fell over wide areas of northern England and Scotland today after a night of sub-freezing temperatures throughout the British Isles.

Some roads in the Edinburgh area were choked with 4-foot drifts. Elsewhere there was a 1-3 inch blanket.

In London fog cut visibility to less than 100 yards. The temperature went just below freezing.

In Northern Ireland, Londonderry anxiously awaited arrival of coal ships from England. An estimated 9,000 homes were without coal.

The high school classes will finance the purchase of $200 worth of scenery for the stage.

Dr. Graham Writes For Music Journal

APPEARING in the January issue of Music Journal is an article by Dr. R. William Graham of the music faculty of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

In "Making the Most of Youth Chords," Dr. Graham sets forth some practical advice to beginning directors, stressing that the approach to youngsters is very different from that used with adult singers.

Dr. Graham proposes that adolescents should be divided into a girls' and a boys' choir, and that the boys' choir should be handled as if it were a singing scout troop. A sequel to this article, also by Dr. Graham, is announced for the February issue of the journal.

Stroudsburg's loss to Slatington on Tuesday night was an unfortunate thing. There were many people, including this scribe, who thought the Mountaineers would be able to upset the Slaters. But as things turned out the Stroudsburg club was never in the game, even though the pupils of Coach John Kupiec outplayed the defending champions in the second half. After thinking about the final results and gathering information on the game, this reporter was unable to remember when a Stroudsburg team has won at Smith Hall, where Tuesday's contest was played.

The truly disturbing thing about the contest was the fact that the Mountaineers scored only 14 points in the first half, making good on two of 22 field goal attempts. Ten of the first half points were visited from the foul line, while the visiting contingent was limited to one field goal in each of the first and second stanzas. This was by far the poorest shooting demonstration put on by the Stroudsburg cage machine this season.

In past games the Mountaineers have shot at an average that featured nine conversions in every 22 shots from the floor. By losing to Slatington on Tuesday the Mountaineers find themselves face to face with a "must" game tomorrow when they tangle with Northampton, on the latter's home boards. The Kupieciens must win to even their record at two victories and the same number of defeats, a factor necessary to keep the Mountaineers in the top half of the circuit.

The W. Main St. cagers must also win to keep their proper mental and spiritual outlook as far as the remainder of the current campaign is concerned. This column has been informed, by an individual who really knows this basketball business, that Northampton has the best "five-man weave" in the Lehigh Valley League. The Konkrete Kids are tied with Stroudsburg and Whitehall for second place at the present time, each with one win and two defeats. Palmerton, Slatington and Catasauqua are deadlocked for the top spot with perfect 3-0 marks.

This column was alarmed following Monday's Stroudsburg-Slatington contest to hear that the Mountaineers took wild and almost impossible shots, raced up and down the court in a wild scramble and three passes quite comparable to Rex Barney pitches. Does this mean that the brand of teamwork which has made the Mountaineers popular this season is gone? Does it mean that individualism has returned? Does it mean that all our hopes are to be dashed?

No basketball team ever won on an individual performance and nobody goes to a basketball game just to see one man play. Individual performances won't help a boy in his ambition to be a member of the all-state or all-league team. High scorers are a dime a dozen, but good basketball players are as scarce as hen's teeth. Well rounded team play attracts crowds and wins basketball games, which actually is one of the fundamental purposes of the game.

I am hopeful that reports of "gunning" are exaggerated and untrue. I hope the Mountaineers will continue to exhibit their fine team play in the future as they did in the past. Teamwork and teamwork alone will win ball games. This column would also like to advise the Mountaineers to forget about next Tuesday's clash with Palmerton until after tomorrow's tussle with Northampton. The Konkrete Kids would like nothing better than to upend Stroudsburg. The game will be played at Northampton which gives the Konkrete Kids a mental edge.

East Stroudsburg jumped out of the Lehigh-Northampton League cellar on Tuesday by crushing Pen Argyl, 72-38. The Cavaliers could very easily finish the first half of the current campaign with four wins and four defeats. At the present time they have won one contest and lost four. Remaining on the first half schedule are Hellertown, Nazareth and Bangor. Hellertown is the toughest of the three foes, but Nazareth and Bangor could prove troublesome on their home courts.

The pleasant part of the East Stroudsburg victory over Pen Argyl, the only club still searching for a victory in the Lehigh-Northampton League, was the 13 points scored by Danny Marvin. This was the highest point total ever registered by Marvin in a varsity game and may have proven that the fall youngster has arrived and will be a big help the remainder of the distance.

First Tripleheader On List

TANNERSVILLE — Three Pocono Mountains Basketball League games will be played today as part of a tripleheader here on the Pocono High School court. Each game will play a major part in the final standings of the circuit.

This is the first tripleheader in the history of the Pocono Mountains League.

The first contest is scheduled to get underway at 7 p.m. and the second will take place one hour later. The nightcap is slated to begin at approximately 9 p.m.

Opening game hostilities will feature West End against Johnson's Diner, while Williams' Pharmacy and Gray's Chevrolet match abilities in the second contest.

The third game will send the Stroudsburg Poconos against Barrett. This tussle was originally listed as Barrett's home game, but had to be shifted when Barrett was unable to find a home court.

Gray's club, with three wins, is the only undefeated team in the circuit at the present time. The Poconos have won three and lost one contest. Barrett's record is one win and two defeats.

Williams' Pharmacy has won one and lost a single tussle and Johnson's Diner has taken the measure of one foe and lost to two. West End, loser of four games, has yet to taste victory against circuit opposition.

Gray's quintet won both the regular season and playoff titles last year.

A pair of contests are also on the agenda for Saturday night, both to be played on the Tobyhanna Township High floor, in Pocono Pines.

The doubleheader will send West End against Barrett in the first game and Lake Harmony against Williams' Pharmacy in the second contest.

Fighters, Trotters Win Cage Battles

FIGHTERS AND Trotters won Ramsey School League basketball games on Tuesday on the school court.

The Fighters staged a second half rally to take the measure of the wildshots, 17-10, and the Trotters used an even brand of basketball to win over the Gunners, 20-6.

Eight points in the third quarter and seven in the fourth enabled the Fighters to break a 2-2 tie at the end of the first half and win by a margin of seven points.

The Trotters held the upper hand throughout their game with the Gunners, leading 12-4 at the end of the first half and 14-6 at the three-quarter mark.

"Butch" Kemmerer, center for the Trotters, was the high individual scorer in the doubleheader with 14 points.

Jumpers To Meet Dancers

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP)—When Walt Davis of Texas A. & M. said he'd spent six months studying essentials of ballet dancing before setting a world high jump record, he started something.

Ballet dancers and high jumpers will get together Jan. 27 at the Royal Academy of Dancing to talk about their common aim in life—jumping.

Arthur Gold and Ron Murry, British track coaches, suggested high jumpers should study movements of ballet dancers to gain more height. Margot Fonteyn and Michael Somes of the Sadler Wells Ballet Co. heard about it and agreed dancers also could learn a few things from high jumpers. The Jan. 27 meeting was arranged and demonstrators from both camps will put on the show.

Decision Of Erdelatz To Stay At Navy Popular Among Colleges

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—It is assumed there is general satisfaction in college circles over the decision of Eddie Erdelatz to remain as Navy coach, although Army may look upon it with disappointment, not to say apprehension.

West Point probably would favor the Middies' return to the old graduate coach system, whereby some officer who had been trained to fight a war suddenly found himself teaching boys to play a game.

Inasmuch as these coaches were rotated every two years they were back aboard ship before the athletes caught on to the system of play.

In January, 1948, after Navy had gone through two seasons with a record of 15 defeats, two victories and a tie, a special committee of former athletes met to see about the sad situation.

The result was the decision to hire a more or less permanent civilian coach. Army had done that in 1941, although the civilian, Earl Blaik, was a West Point graduate. After a couple of years of initiation, the Blaik system started to roll, and hasn't stopped, although slowed down once by the so-called cribbing affair.

George Sauer was the first Navy civilian coach under the new setup. He lasted through the 1948 and 1949 seasons, and a stocky, genial fellow named Eddie Erdelatz took his place.

That was January 11, 1951, and what has happened to Navy football fortunes since that lucky day is pretty well known. The Middies aren't just rolling. They're practically steam rolling.

Erdelatz has an amazing knack of communicating some of his own eagerness and fire and zest for the game to his players, who consequently play better than they know how.

Usually they are a bunch of guys named Joe as far as the public is concerned. That is, they aren't publicized much as individuals, and until the last couple of games the past season you might have had the idea the squad was made up of Ron Beagle, a really fine end.

The Joes play with a relentless ferocity, knocking down opponents all over the place and then doing it again before they have time to apologize. It is very discouraging to play a team which keeps coming at you like so many Rocky Marcianos.

The decision of Erdelatz to sign again with Navy indicates he wasn't just giving out the old

Wisconsin Grid Star Honored With 'Day' By Home Folks

KENOSHA, Wis., Jan. 12 (AP)—It was "Ameeche Day," keys to the city and all, in this factory town of 50,000 today as Alan The Horse, Wisconsin's All-American fullback, cashed in on his football career.

The big kid who earned his "Horse" nickname at Kenosha High School and went on to become the greatest ball carrier in college football at Wisconsin came home to be honored by the fans who saw him make his start.

He brought with him the high school sweetheart he married, Yvonne, and their oldest son, Brian, not quite 2.

Gifts the Ameeches received were many—and varied. The most spectacular was 3,212 one-dollar bills, fastened together, which Ameeche and his wife reeled in from the four corners of the dining room. They represented the big fullback's yardage in 36 games in Badger Cardinal, an NCAA all-time rushing record.

In the field with Santee are Gunnar Nielson of Denmark, rated just behind Santee as the world's top miler in active competition, and a pair of good American middle distance men, Bob McMillen of Occidental College and Joe LaPierre of Georgetown University.

The world record for an indoor mile is 4:06.3, set in a 1948 Madison Square Garden meet by Gil Dodds. The Star games mark is 4:12.4, set last year by Ohio State's Len Truex, who now is on military duty.

Four White Sox Players Sign

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—Four Chicago White Sox players, including the American League's top defensive second baseman, Nellie Fox, today agreed to terms for 1955. The White Sox now have 22 players under contract.

First sacker Walt Dropo, acquired last month from the Detroit Tigers, and outfielders Willard Marshall and Ed McGehee also re-joined the fold.

"I'm thrilled and very honored to be selected by an institution with such high academic, patriotic and athletic standards as the Naval Academy."

Committee Satisfied With Foul Rule

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—The National Basketball Committee still thinks the present "bonus" free throw rule is working out okay and that if scoring has to be throttled some other gimmick must be used—like perhaps a larger ball.

Confronted by the fact that losing teams in six major college games last night scored more field goals than the winners, H. V. Porter, secretary of the national group which makes both collegiate and prep rules, today had this to say:

"I talked with all 20 members of the committee recently and practically all of them think the bonus free throw (1-1, a good first shot meriting a second) is working out in good fashion even though the scoring is running high."

"Reports from college and high school coaches throughout the country express the same sentiment. The feeling is that the scores are normally high early in the season, but even last week a leveling off appeared to be developing as the defense catches up with the offense."

Porter also executive-secretary of the National Federation of High School Athletic Assns., said the current foul rule was the result of close study and not a haphazard experiment. It is based on a theory that possession is worth eight tenths of a point. This spurred fouling under the old single free throw rule and even under the more recent rule of a second gift shot after a first miss.

"Now, the bonus free throw value is much more than the eight tenths of a point attributed to possession and is severe enough penalty to check flagrant fouling," said Porter.

Porter said his office has had one suggestion that scoring might be slowed by increasing the size of the ball. This proposal points out that 20 years ago, the circumference of a ball was trimmed from a 21½-inch maximum to the present 29½-inch size "to help scoring."

Burk May Start Sunday

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12 (AP)—Adrian Burk of the Philadelphia Eagles may get the starting quarterback assignment in Sunday's pro bowl game instead of Cleveland's Otto Graham.

Eagle Coach Jim Trimble hadn't definitely made up his mind today but for a couple of reasons he is expected to lead with Burk.

Graham was late for practice—he performed in the Hula Bowl game at Hawaii last weekend—and Burk knows Trimble's system.

Both are expected to be major powers in the offense for the East All-Stars who collide with a stellar group of pros from the western clubs in the charity game.

Graham announced his retirement after the 1954 season ended.

Leahy Remains Hospital Patient

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—Frank Leahy, former Notre Dame football coach, who entered Passavant Hospital a week ago today, will undergo examination of a stomach condition for another week.

Leahy, 46, said he was "feeling fine," but that the exact nature of his ailment has not yet been diagnosed. Stomach spasms caused Leahy's collapse during the Notre Dame-Georgia Tech game two seasons ago and caused his retirement last Feb. 1.

Castellani Earns Decision To Halt Mims' Winning Streak

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12 (AP)—"Rocky Castellani tonight won a unanimous decision over Holly Mims and virtually clinched another crack at "Bobo" Olson's middleweight crown.

Cleveland's Castellani boxed his way out of Mims' bullish charges, and delivered telling blows on the end of the rushes. His hard left hook in the eighth round dumped Mims to the canvas for a mandatory eight count, although the loser's handlers protested loudly that it was not a knockdown.

Castellani fought at 159½, four pounds heavier than Mims. The loss snapped Mims' unbeaten string after 11 victories and a draw. The Washington, D. C., fighter had not been beaten since October, 1952. It was Castellani's 58th victory, against six defeats and a draw.

Olson and his manager, Sid Flaherty, sat at ringside for tonight's battle. Al Naiman, Waymart, Moscow Tie For Leads

HONESDALE—Waymart and Moscow moved into deadlocks for first place in two divisions of the Wayne County Basketball Conference Tuesday with wins over Greene-Dreher-Sterling and Preston, respectively.

The Warriors had too much for the upper-Wayne crew, romping 78-53. Mike Salak led the scoring with 25 points for the winners while Herman tossed in 19 for Preston. The Waymart win moved the Warriors to a 3-1 record in the North half and into a tie with idle Hawley and Pleasant Mount.

Moscow's second WCC triumph in as many starts gave the Trojans a share of the top spot in the South with Lake Ariel. Both have 2-2 records.

In another game, Pleasant Mount rolled over Honesdale, 67-39, to regain a hold of the lead which they lost only last Friday. Dan O'Neill was high man for the Mounties with 22 points. Houth scored 11 for the Hornets.

NCAA Football Rules Committee Decides To Ease Up On 'Anti-Platoon' Substitution Law

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—The NCAA Football Rules Committee today eased up on the "anti-platoon" substitution rule and made five other changes in the rules for 1955. In addition it strongly urged coaches and officials to observe and enforce two rules now in the book with an implied threat of drastic action of "false start" violations aren't eliminated.

Accepting the recommendation of the Football Coaches Association, the committee eliminated the controversial four-minute segment at the end of each half and ruled that the players who start each quarter of a game will be eligible to leave and reenter once during that quarter. Those who don't participate in the opening down of a period can't reenter in the same period.

Although this is a step in the other direction from the change of two years ago that outlawed two-platoon football, the committee and coaches had no inclination to return to platoon football. The idea was to do away with the four-minute segment, which some coaches felt made football a six-period game, and to give coaches and doctors a chance to examine slightly injured players without losing them for an entire quarter.

The change also made possible limited use of some specialists. For instance a player can come in once to kick a conversion and the one for whom he substituted can return, but it can't happen twice in one quarter.

The other changes passed today were:

One—A player who kneels to hold the ball for a place kick now can rise and run, pass or kick. This is an exception to the rule which makes the ball dead once the carrier touches the ground with any part of his body but the hands or feet.

Two—The "tackle eligible" forward pass play is legal only if no other offensive player is stationed outside the end man when the ball is snapped. A tackle guard or center becomes an eligible pass receiver if he is the end man on the scrimmage line. The additional provision eliminates borderline deception when an end, stationed far out, would drop back a yard to make the next man eligible. Three—"The hideout" play was outlawed by a provision that when the ball is spotted and declared ready for play, all offensive players must be within 15 yards of the ball. Afterward they can go where they please. The previous "no hideout" rule applied only when substitutions were coming in or out of the game.

Four—The fair catch signal was changed to eliminate the wig-wag, which the committee felt was too difficult to perform while catching the ball. The signal now is just raising one hand clearly above the head.

Five—The use of shoe cleats with rounded bottoms was authorized.

On the "false start" and "sucker shift," which occupied about one third of the time during the two and one-half day meeting, the decision was to leave the rules alone. Instead a new and stronger appeal will be made to adhere to the present rule in spirit and letter. Meanwhile a special committee will make a complete and exhaustive study of the problem.

Saddler To Defend Title

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—After over three years, including a two-year hitch in the Army, Sandy Saddler finally has agreed to defend his world featherweight title, Friday, Feb. 25 at Madison Square Garden against Teddy (Red Top) Davis.

Stripped of recognition in National Boxing Assn. states because he refused to heed the NBA's Dec. 14 deadline, the 28-year-old champion will be engaging someone other than Willie Pep in a title fight for the first time. The rangy New York Negro won the title from Willy Willie, Oct. 29, 1948, lost it back to Pep the next year and won it again, Sept. 8, 1950.

Simpson Heads GOP Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) was reelected yesterday as chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee.

The committee supports Republicans for election to the House. Simpson headed it for the past two years, including the 1954 election campaign.

He has backed President Eisenhower on most issues, although he is a leading foe of the President's program to lower U. S. tariffs.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 8 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 8, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

THE ABOVE MAP LOCATES extreme readings in hot and cold, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau researchers, which gives the Russians one record they can claim legitimately. And they can have it. Other gleanings announced by the bureau: you work at peak efficiency in 64-degree temperature, at only half efficiency at zero, and at record 90 below, there is no efficiency. Average U. S. temperature is 53.2 degrees.

Lengthy Service Of Second Century Far Different From Modern Mode Of Worship

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Going to church today is easier, safer, takes less time—and may be less dramatic—than it was in the early years of the Christian era.

Comparisons such as this between the original and modern modes of worship are recalled regularly in the Calvary Methodist Church in Washington, D.C., which annually observes a "second century church service."

Other congregations also have reproduced the strange worship meeting, which in antiquity lasted all day but in these days is abbreviated to fit the time taken by a usual Sunday service.

Its form was determined through 20 years research by Dr. Robert H. Bogue, a religious historian and research director for the National Bureau of Standards.

"If we are to understand our religion," he said, "we must know its background, its beginnings and its development."

Setting for the second century service is in the days 150 years after Jesus died, when assorted writings about him abounded and before any authorized New Testament had been compiled.

It was a period of sporadic persecutions, of clashing Christian interpretations, of struggle against efforts to tone down the meaning of Jesus, of high feeling against heresies.

In services of that time, Dr. Bogue said, "there had begun to appear forerunners of ceremonial ritual which later were to become dominant in the Catholic Church."

From his findings, the scene can be reconstructed as an ordinary group of Christians gather for Sunday worship:

There are about 40 of them—men and women. They bring lunch-baskets, for the services last until nightfall.

Then, they file silently into the meeting place. They drop coins in a "mite box" at the rear, or place food packages there for the needy.

All day, there are repeated murmurs, "Maran atha"—"The Lord cometh."

The expected Second Coming was so much on their minds that in some provinces, they prayed standing, looking skyward. But mostly the habit of kneeling, as Jesus did, still prevailed.

The men sit on one side of the room, facing the center aisle. The women sit separately on the other side, also facing the center.

The women's heads are covered. They must remain silent throughout.

Only the men join in the chants, the "amens" and "Maran athas." At certain points they rise to tell their dreams or visions.

After the congregation is seated, the bishop, three elders and three deacons in black move in procession to the front, their arms folded.

At the altar—a cross and candlestick with seven candles—a deacon lights the candles, while all kneel.

"The seven lamps of fire burn before the throne," the deacon announces. "They are the seven spirits of God."

The bishop stands, and intones, "Let the holy saints draw near. . . Let the prophets make thanksgiving. Maran atha. Amen."

A chant rises from the men, "Glory to God in the highest. . ." (The singing approximates the Ambrosian or Gregorian chant).

The bishop recites praises to God, a litany from the Psalms, broken by chanted refrains, "Holy is He!"

As the bishop gives the Lord's Prayer, the men sing out after each line, "Praise be to God."

The bishop calls the poor to the front and blesses them, then calls the rich forward and admonishes them.

After more chants from the Psalms, the first deacon reads from the Old Testament, and the first elder gives a sermon on "The Mystery of Christ."

(As today, sermons were based on specific passages, either from the Old Testament or writings of the Apostles or others.)

Another chant follows, a Scripture reading by the second deacon and sermon from the second elder on "The Mystery of Repentance."

Then more Psalms, a reading and sermon on "The Mystery of Love."

Often, men rise to ask questions or to make comments, such as, "My elder, your words are too deep for us."

Then individual worshippers recite their dreams or visions, for interpretation by the bishop.

Afterward, there are readings and teaching of the Apostles, more prayers and litanies, and a benediction, interspersed with a swelling chorus of "Maran athas" and "amen" all around.

A deacon extinguishes the candles. It is sundown.

The bishop intones: "Even so, come, Lord Jesus."

The congregation: "Amen and amen, amen and amen, amen and amen."

The bishop: "Amen and amen."

Opposition Attacks Ike Leadership

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Democratic National Committee said today that since President Eisenhower appeared on the political scene "he has presented so many different faces that no positive image has emerged."

This was the committee's appraisal of the President's leadership at mid-term as contained in the February issue of the party's official publication, the "Democratic Digest."

It was the second time since Eisenhower's State of the Union message that the committee has challenged the chief executive, although today's assertions went to press before the President read his message to Congress last Thursday.

Last week's questioning criticism brought some caustic retorts from Republicans in and out of Congress. It had an aftermath yesterday when Senate Republican and Democratic leaders exchanged words that contrasted with early talk of bipartisan cooperation.

The Digest today cited about a score of instances in which it said the President has been "at odds with himself or his party in the last two years."

An article entitled "Administration Without Leadership" said Eisenhower finds himself at odds on foreign policy with a majority of his Joint Chiefs of Staff and with Sen. Knowland of California, his Senate floor leader.

It said the Eisenhower-Dulles policy—which it added has shifted from one of "liberation" and "massive retaliation" to "modus vivendi" and economic assistance—has met with "mounting resistance from the powerful GOP right wing, of which . . . Knowland is the foreign policy spokesman." It added:

"In this situation, both the President and Sen. Knowland are seeking to put off a final showdown. Both have declared their difference is not 'basic'—a difference of method rather than of principle.

"At the same time, their policy statements have made it plain that they are as far apart as night from day. Or, as Mr. Eisenhower said himself in his rejection of Knowland's proposal for a blockade of Red China, their disagreement amounts to the difference between war and peace."

The article went on to say that "unless Mr. Eisenhower can summon the resolution and power now to meet the Knowland challenge, he faces the prospect of a larger challenge later."

Witnesses Say They Didn't Cast Ballots

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 12 (AP)—Dozens of witnesses paraded to the stand today to tell a federal jury they didn't cast ballots which the government says were recorded in their names in the 1952 presidential election.

The witnesses testified they apparently were victims of a clever "phantom forger" who put their signatures on voters' certificates. All swore they didn't sign the certificates or cast ballots. But all agreed the forged signatures closely resembled their own.

First Asst. U. S. Atty. D. Malcolm Anderson said he intends to pin down the forger—through FBI handwriting experts—later in the U. S. District Court trial of seven New Kensington residents charged with conspiring to deprive civil rights.

The seven are among 38 persons from Westmoreland, Fayette and Washington counties indicted as a result of alleged irregularities in the Nov. 4, 1952, election. The others will go on trial later.

Anderson expects to call some 100 Westmoreland County residents in all to testify they did not vote in the election in the second precinct of New Kensington's First Ward and did not sign voters' certificates which allegedly bore their signatures.

Gabriel (Kelly) Mannarino of New Kensington, by his own testimony an associate of Frank Phillips, one of the defendants, told the jury he didn't vote in the election although the government says a ballot was cast in his name.

Similar testimony was given by James C. Sicilia, brother of two defendants—Mike Sicilia, judge of elections in the precinct, and Mrs. Dora Truver, a watcher at the polls.

Others on trial are Sam Chiappeta, minority inspector; John Fontana and John Corso, election clerks; and Mrs. Mary Fritz, poll watcher.

James Sicilia testified he was overseas in the Army when the government says a ballot was cast in his name.

Anthony Sam, an elderly man who hobbled to the stand with a cane, said he was confined to his Lower Burrell Twp. home at the time he allegedly was "voted."

Ernest Magliocco of Springdale

THE "NEW SELF" that Marilyn Monroe was reported to have achieved does not seem too apparent in this photo made as she returned to work in Hollywood after a holiday in Connecticut and New York. Friends have reported that a Marilyn Monroe Productions company is being formed.

The condition of Mrs. George Kroupsey, who is now in a nursing home in Columbia, N. J., is somewhat improved, according to last reports.

said he hadn't lived for 10 years in the precinct where the government alleges his vote was cast.

Similar testimony came from Guido Magliocco of Valley Heights. On and on it went, witness after witness appearing briefly to tell his story.

Congress Already Facing Many Vital Issues Such As 'Should Rose Be Our National Flower?'

by ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Congress has been on the job only a week, but already it has been tossed such horticultural, urban and agricultural problems as:

(A) Should the rose be our national flower?

(B) Do the nation's urbanists—that is, city dwellers—deserve a Cabinet officer and a full department to look after their interests?

(C) What can be done about the unwelcome life of a North Dakota pullet?

Congress has met on only four days, and much of its time has been taken up in organizing and in getting the word from President Eisenhower. Yet the 435 representatives have managed to propose more than 2,000 laws. The Senators have ideas for another 300, and there's no sign of a letup.

Appropriately, the horticultural note is supplied by a lady legislator. Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio) has introduced a resolution to have the rose named our national flower.

The urbanist is Rep. J. Arthur Younger (R-Calif.), who not only thought up the idea but also the word. During the last Congress Younger got to thinking about how the agriculture department worries about the farmers. Fine, especially in the days when this was an agricultural country, but now that everyone is moving to town, who worries about the city slickers?

Nobody, was Younger's answer. So he made up the word, and again has introduced a bill calling for a Department of Urbaniculture.

Sen. William Langer (R-ND) fetched in the pullet problem. It came in a letter from Mrs. Lloyd Randall, a Lake Williams, N.D., farm wife, who said she has been selling pullet eggs for as low as six cents a dozen and leghorn hens for as little as 18 cents apiece.

Why, said Mrs. Randall, we got that much during the depression, only then coffee cost 25 cents a pound and now it's $1.25.

"A legitimate complaint," Langer told the Senate. And although he didn't introduce a bill, he did send the letter to the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Rep. Carroll D. Kearns (R-Pa) wants the mint to start minting $10 gold pieces.

Sen. Frank Barrett (R-Wyo) thinks all automobiles should have safety belts, and Sen. Price Daniel (D-Tex) wants a National Library of Weekly Newspapers. Weekly newspaper editors write the nation's history, Daniel said, and he should know. His father was one.

Rep. Hubert Scudder (R-Calif) wants a representative's term extended from two to four years. A practical suggestion, on the whole. With the work load already laid out, it looks as if they could use every minute of it.
